Greetings to all - hard to believe February is here!! At least the days are getting longer even if the temp is not getting any warmer!! Some items of interest this month are:

1. Dates and Deadlines for Spring 2015
   - Last day to apply for graduation in May 2015 is February 6. A link to the online graduation application is posted on each Pre-Health webpage, or you can go directly to it at: https://apps.und.edu/graduationonline/
   - The preliminary SUMMER 2015 course schedule will be available February 2
   - The preliminary FALL 2015 course schedule will be available March 2
   - Spring Break is March 16-20
   - Your registration time will be available on the Campus Connection on April 2
   - Summer and Fall Registration begins April 6
   - Last day to drop a course or change a course to S/U grading is April 10
   - Easter Break is April 3-6

2. Freshmen Pre-Health advising sessions run this month only!!
   Freshman group advising sessions for Pre-Health students (regardless of major) on 4 year plans will run on Fridays, February 6 – 27 only! We will be discussing your schedules for next fall and some options for summer activities. You must attend one of these sessions before I will see you one-on-one again next year. Only athletes, ROTC, or any other students on 5 year plans, may make individual appointments for the purpose of planning schedules – be sure to come in before spring break. Call the main office of the College of Arts and Sciences at 777-2749 ASAP to sign up for a meeting or to pick a time. If none of the meeting times work with your current schedule, or if you have other concerns you need to discuss, call the A&S Office before spring break. All sessions are in the basement conference room in Montgomery Hall – use the building entrance that is closest to Merrifield, facing the library:

3. Don’t forget to check out my Pre-Health web pages!
   Be sure to take a look at the web page that covers your Pre-Health Program and add it your bookmarks! You can get at the pages directly from the UND A-Z index, or through the main Pre-Health page at: http://arts-sciences.und.edu/pre-health/. On these pages you’ll find links to: Pre-Health Guides (which include sample class schedules), Pre-Health handouts/info (which include test prep suggestions), Pre-Health announcements/events, my monthly newsletters, my office hours, etc. I am always in the tweaking stages so if you have any suggestions for what else I can include or how I can improve these pages, please let me know! Thanks!!!
4. Staying on Track
This spring, the Student Success Center will host a Staying on Track series for study skills in the Memorial Union. The series is designed to teach students helpful study skills they can use throughout their college career. Dates of the remaining sessions are Tuesday February 24\textsuperscript{th}, Wednesday April 1\textsuperscript{st}, and Thursday April 30\textsuperscript{th}. Topics and times are listed at: \url{UND.edu/stayingontrack}

5. Spring Break and Summer Opportunities
The UND chapter of MedLife takes some interesting trips abroad during spring break. This year they are travelling to Peru! Check with the current president, Sarah Hansen (UNDmedlife@gmail.com), or the faculty advisor Dr. Becky Simmons in the Biology Department (rebecca.simmons@und.edu).

There are a range of research opportunities for students offered in any given summer. Check with individual professors now to see if they need help in their lab. You may also want to apply to participate in one of the more formal programs on campus:

- EPSCoR AURA:
  Applications will be available online in early February 2015 and will be due in March. Questions? Ask Dr. Mark Hoffmann in the Chem department (mhoffmann@chem.und.edu).

- REU (Research Experience for Undergraduates):
  Applications are usually available at the beginning of February and due at the beginning of March. Questions? Ask Dr. Van Doze in the UND SMHS (van.doze@med.und.edu).

6. Honor Societies
It seems this time every year, students who have been reasonably successful academically, are invited to join all sorts of "honor societies". While some stand out, unless the criteria for membership are very exclusive (3.7+ GPA, research, service, etc.), just being a member of these societies won't help your application to health professional schools. There are those societies, however, that do provide good opportunities for leadership skills development or community service – opportunities that can go on your applications. Others offer good benefits in exchange for the membership fee. Here are some hints to help you decide whether to join or not:

- If you get a letter on UND letterhead asking you to join their chapter of a national society, then check into it. Phi Beta Kappa is a very distinguished society - join it if you are offered the opportunity! Invitations usually go out to students in their senior year. Mortarboard is also a very worthwhile society because of the leadership and community service emphasis. Invitations go out to students after they have completed 90 credits. Other societies may not be so distinguishing - check their entrance requirements. If they require only a 3.0 GPA, or only one year of college credits completed, then skip it! You can get more info on the local chapter of any honor society at: http://www.union.und.edu/involvement/studentorgs/directory.htm

- If you get a letter directly from a society, check on membership requirements and membership fees versus what you get in return. Some, like the Golden Key and Mortarboard, offer reasonable benefits in exchange for the membership dues (hotel and rental car discounts – helpful during interviews), but you need to decide if it is worth it!

That’s all for now – happy February!!
