

The University of North Dakota Department of Theatre Arts offers exciting opportunities in theatre for majors and non-majors with its extensive theatre and dance curriculum, essential studies courses, and production experience.

Focus areas include:

- Performance
- Technical Design (Lighting, Scenic)
- Costume and Makeup Design
- Directing
- Stage Management
- Musical Theatre
- Dance

THE UND THEATRE
advantage

- Degrees offered include BA, BFA and MA
- Small Classes, Personalized Instruction
- Opportunities for students to create, even as a freshman
- Dance minor available through department
- Student-directed and designed productions appear, as do student-written shows
- UND Theatre maintains a low student:faculty ratio, ensuring you are a name, not a number
- UND Theatre employs a liberal arts philosophy, ensuring well rounded and critically thinking graduates
- UND Theatre graduates go on to work in all areas of arts and entertainment

We have a place
waiting for you.

UND THEATRE ARTS scholarships

We understand that paying for college can be overwhelming. We can help. At UND, you'll find one of the best education values in the Midwest

There are many opportunities for scholarships, financial aid and student loans. In fact, 75% of our students share in nearly $71 million in financial aid each year, and UND awards close to $3 million a year in scholarships. Some of our students choose to work while attending college, and we have more than 2,000 jobs available on campus for students each year.

- Up to $1000 per year available, by application
- For more scholarship information, visit us online at theatre.und.edu

For More Information:

Department of Theatre Arts
University of North Dakota

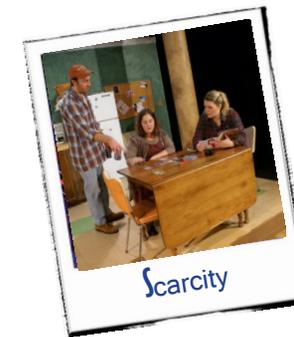

3280 Davis Drive
Chandler Hall
Grand Forks, ND 58202

701-777-3446 (p)
701-777-3522 (f)

theatre.und.edu
facebook: UND Theatre Arts

PERFORMANCE
DIRECTING
DESIGN & TECH
DANCE
MUSICAL THEATRE

you belong at UND THEATRE

The Department of Theatre Arts provides students with opportunities to pursue either of the undergraduate degrees of Bachelor of Fine Arts or Bachelor of Arts.

Bachelor of Arts students may choose to emphasize any of the following areas of study: directing, set design, lighting design, sound design, costume design, technical theatre, costume construction, dance, playwriting and dramatic literature.

The Bachelor of Fine Arts is a pre-professional performance degree, and it requires a higher level of proficiency in acting, and admission is by audition during your sophomore year.

You won't disappear at UND! The Department of Theatre Arts is a small, intensive program within a much larger University—so you still get all the benefits of a large University (with over 200 fields of study).

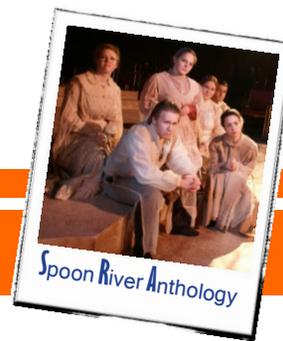

Take a look around campus, and you'll see lots of opportunities to join in everyday. In fact, there are over 270 student organizations on campus!

If sports are your thing, take the time to cheer on our nationally placed sports teams. If it's the arts you crave, there are literally tons of activities both on campus and off, from visual arts and museums, to music, dance and theatre. If it is nature that you crave, try taking in the many area parks and trails, or grabbing a bite to eat at one of the dining halls, food courts, and coffee shops scattered across campus and town... you'll be sure to run into people who are into the exact same things.

Suddenly, a campus of 13,000 students starts to feel pretty tight-knit.

No matter your interest, we can customize the perfect program for YOU!

DIRECTING & performance

Interested in acting, directing or stage management? UND has what you need! Professional theatre requires both general and specialist knowledge and understanding. UND's acting, directing and stage management students acquire a grounding in all aspects of theatre production and work closely with students of all other theatre disciplines to develop an overall understanding of performance and theatre production.

Students can pursue a bachelor of Arts in Theatre Studies, or the Bachelor of Fine Arts in Performance.

THEATRE DESIGN & technology

The design and technology option is intended for talented and serious students who wish to pursue a career in design or technical theatre, or are looking for a strong foundation for advanced study in a quality graduate program.

Areas of concentration in this option include scenery, lighting, costuming, sound, and makeup. All theatre students also complete a strong core of liberal arts courses.

Students have the opportunity to apply to design or tech in the lab theatre student productions. Advanced students may design in the main stage season.

MUSICAL THEATRE & dance

The new Musical Theatre option at UND is intended for the talented and serious student who wishes to pursue a career in musical theatre.

This interdisciplinary program requires course work in dance, music, and theatre.

All musical theatre students also complete a strong core of liberal arts courses. Student progress in the option is measured in class work, performance, and juries.

Over four years the students will have the opportunity to audition for up to two musicals each year that will cover the classic American musical, new works, and operettas.

Our New York Showcase program gives seniors in this and the acting option an opportunity to audition for casting agents, graduate schools, and industry professionals.

UND's Dance Minor is designed to prepare talented students for a career in performance, choreography, or studio teaching or for an advanced training in a quality graduate school or conservatory.

This program combines concentrated study in dance technique, theory, composition and choreography with required courses in theatre and liberal arts.

We have a place
waiting for you.

