

UND Trombone Ensembles

The North Dakota Trombone Choir, founded in 2010 by Dr. Joel Pugh is a university/community ensemble, comprised of a wide variety of trombonists, including University of North Dakota Music Majors, non-majors, public school band directors, members of the Greater Grand Forks Symphony Orchestra, retired military and select high school students. In addition to performing regularly on the UND campus, the NDTC has performed at the North Dakota Music Educators National Conference, with UND Wind Ensemble, at Winter WUNDERland Christmas Concert, and at Grand Forks' churches.

Additionally, they have performed with the Manitoba Trombone Collective and the Brandon University Trombone Choir in Winnipeg at MTC's Prairie Trombone Festival. They have hosted the UND Trombone Day, featuring Scott Hartman and Ryan Christianson. They have also hosted Dr. Eric Ewazen and R. Douglas Wright in their recent UND Residencies.

The UND Trombone Quartet participated in Brandon University's Low Brass Day, featuring jazz trombonist Al Kay and later participated in two residencies in Shanghai, China, at East China Normal University and the University of Shanghai Science and Technology.

The NDTC has also commissioned music from internationally renowned composers, including Dr. Kenyon Wilson, Dr. Eric Ewazen, Dr. Thomas Zegger, and they will be premiering a piece in the spring by Dr. Christopher Gable.
