

This sample plan is outlined for an early June test date. Adjust as needed for your exam date. On average, students spend ~3 hours/day over the course of ~3-6 months preparing for their test and take 3-10 full-length practice tests prior to the actual exam. More important than the number of practice tests you take is that you simulate test day by taking the exam in the allotted timeframe and that you carefully review of each completed practice exam. You need to build test-taking endurance and learn from your mistakes. Remember that this is just an example to help provide you with some guidance; use your best judgement and customize this plan in a way that works for you.
